Real World Training for Women in Law Enforcement

“The Winning Mind for Women” is one of the most unique and popular law enforcement courses offered in the market today. Veteran instructor Sgt. Betsy Smith (ret.), the creator of the original “Street Survival for Women,” guides students through 8 hours of intensive officer survival training that will provide attendees with tactics and information they can use to improve their response to virtually any situation. A day in the classroom begins by honoring our fallen and celebrating this profession. We define a true “Winning Mindset” as we weave real world examples of female law enforcement officers successfully policing in today’s world throughout the presentation. We introduce proven science and leadership principles that anyone can use to enhance their career and improve their life on and off the job. The training day concludes with a reminder that “winning” is truly a way of life. The multi-media format keeps students engaged and entertained while we provide officers, agents, dispatchers, trainers, supervisors, managers and all other personnel with a realistic blueprint of individual career success and how these principles can be harnessed in both men and women to improve performance, morale, communication, health, relationships, and especially officer safety. Attendees leave our training energized, motivated and upbeat. Visit www.femaleforces.com or call 847-875-3620 for group discounts or to host.
