

2023 Certification Action Summaries

Washington State Criminal Justice Training Commission
Certification Report

About the Report

This report shows all actions taken against officers' certifications in 2023. The summaries are ordered by the effective date of the final order of the hearing panel. For purposes of this table, all certified peace officers are referred to as "officer" regardless of their rank at their respective agencies at the time of the incidents.

For officers whose conduct predated SB 5051, and for whom charges were issued under the prior version of RCW 43.101.010, the charges are identified by type of disqualifying misconduct. For charges issued under the current version of RCW 43.101.105, the specific statutory provisions charged are provided.

Definitions

Revoked: The officer's certification was revoked by the decision of the hearing panel.

Revoked – Default: The officer failed to request a hearing within the 60-day period required by RCW 43.101.155(1) and WAC 139-06-050(2) or otherwise waived their right to a hearing.

Surrendered Certification: The officer voluntarily surrendered their certification.

Dismissed: The hearing panel dismissed the charges against the officer.

| Summary: | The officer used his position to facilitate a sexual relationship with a civilian witness. The relationship escalated when the officer solicited the witness to watch child pornography, a felony. Furthermore, the officer described wanting to have sexual contact with the witness's 12-year-old daughter. During his arrest, the officer refused to comply with responding officers and destroyed several pieces of physical and digital evidence. He was arrested and charged with Attempted Child Molestation in the Second Degree. The officer's conditions of release prohibited him from possessing weapons and having any contact with minors. His employment was subsequently terminated. After receiving the Statement of Charges, the officer failed to request an adjudicative hearing within the 60-day period required by RCW 43.101.155(1) and WAC 139-06-050(2). Consequently, his certification was revoked by default. |                              |                   |

| Summary: | In December 2013, the officer offered a courtesy ride to a female citizen. During the drive, the officer pulled off onto a logging road, turned off his patrol vehicle, and had sex with the woman, who was too intoxicated to give consent. In 2015, the officer had consensual sex with the same woman. In 2017, the woman filed a Petition for Sexual Assault Protection Order against the officer. The officer provided multiple false testimonies, including denying that he had sexual contact with the woman in both 2013 and 2015. A Clallam County Sheriff's Office detective found that the officer committed the crime of Perjury in the First Degree by lying about his previous sexual relationship with the woman and about the events which transpired during and after the citizen motor assist in December 2013. The officer was terminated by his agency. |                              |           |

| An internal investigation revealed that the officer harassed a co-worker by sending him an anonymous letter undermining and disrespecting the co-worker's position of authority. During the internal investigation, the anonymous letter was sent for fingerprint analysis. The officer used his personal phone to call the Latent Print Unit to gather information about the pending case. When confronted, the officer denied sending the anonymous letter or contacting the fingerprint analysis office. However, the evidence and investigation proved otherwise. As a result, the officer eventually resigned. After receiving the Statement of Charges, the officer failed to request an adjudicative hearing within the 60-day period required by RCW 43.101.155(1) and WAC 139-06-050(2). | The officer used his position as a supervisor to assign a female mental health worker to ride in his squad car during mental health calls. While on duty, he engaged in sexual contact with her. He also sent her photos of a sexual nature taken while in uniform and in his patrol vehicle. The officer resigned in lieu of termination. The hearing panel found his conduct violated RCW 43.101.105(j)(iv) by failing to meet the ethical and professional standards of a peace officer, and disrupting, diminishing, and jeopardizing the public trust and confidence in the law enforcement profession. |   |                              |            |

| The officer resigned in lieu of termination while under investigation for sexual misconduct while on duty. While on duty, the officer used state resources to facilitate a sexual relationship with a female coworker on multiple occasions. After receiving the Statement of Charges, the officer requested an adjudicative hearing within the 60-day period required by RCW 43.101.155(1) and WAC 139-06-050(2). However, prior to the commencement of the hearing, the officer withdrew his hearing request. Consequently, his certification was revoked by default. |   |                              |                   |

Summary:

The officer was terminated after it was revealed that his wife received a payout from one of his confidential informants. The officer's wife connected him to the confidential informant, then she demanded the informant pay her a percentage of the payment he received from the police. The officer's actions created a conflict of interest that jeopardized two separate criminal investigations. Moreover, despite the officer's claim that he did not know about the payments to his wife, there was evidence that he knew or should have known, and that he failed to disclose the kickback to his superior officers. After receiving the Statement of Charges, the officer waived his right to request an adjudicative hearing within the 60-day period required by RCW 43.101.155(1) and WAC 139-06-050(2). Consequently, his certification was revoked by default.

| Summary: | The officer resigned in lieu of termination after an internal investigation revealed that the officer performed his duties as a police officer while intoxicated and had a personal firearm in his department-issued vehicle while intoxicated. When confronted about the issue, the officer denied having consumed alcohol. He was relieved from duty, and testing showed he was under the influence of alcohol. After receiving the Statement of Charges, the officer requested an adjudicative hearing within the 60-day period required by RCW 43.101.155(1) and WAC 139-06-050(2). However, the officer failed to attend one of his scheduled pre-hearing conferences. Consequently, his certification was revoked by default. |                              |                   |

| Summary:  |   |                              |           |
| The officer was arrested for Domestic Violence Assault in the 4th Degree after allegedly bruising his domestic partner's hand and foot with a chair during an argument. The officer denied that the chair touched the victim. After a criminal trial, the officer was found not guilty of four counts of assault. In the agency internal affairs investigation, the officer reiterated that he did not strike the victim with a chair. That investigation found that the officer did strike his partner and was dishonest with investigators. The officer was terminated. The hearing panel found there was insufficient evidence to conclude whether or not the officer committed an assault or intentionally committed an assault. Likewise, the hearing panel concluded the WSCJTC failed to prove the officer engaged in two counts of making false or misleading statements. The Statement of Charges was dismissed. |   |                              |           |
